

How to practice internet etiquette as a student

1

Respect privacy

If someone is not comfortable sharing information with you, try not to push or pressure them into doing so.

Stay on topic

Make sure you are asking questions or sharing information in the most relevant discussion forums.

2

Be mindful of your language

Although you might believe something to be funny or harmless, another person could take offence or find it upsetting.

Choose emojis carefully

Emojis can easily change the context of an entire conversation. Choose wisely, if you are unsure, rather don't use any at all.

4

5

Respect each other's views

Allow others to share openly. First and foremost, listen, and understand the other person's point of view without judgement.

As an online learner, good communication enables you to assimilate more from the learning process by asking relevant questions, clarifying information, discussing doubts, and sharing opinions.
